Notes for ANDREW LEWIS LINDSAY:

NOTES FROM ILA MARSHALL (NEE HAMPSON)

Soon after my Grandfather (Andrew L. Lindsay) settled in Wilson County, Kansas, an Irish man came driving along one day in a prairie schooner, stopped at Grandfather Lindsay's house and inquired where he could get a horse shod as he had one that was lame from travel. Grandfather Lindsay told him that he did such jobs occasionally and at once put on the shoe and gave the needed relief.

The Irish man then stated that he had come to the new country to settle and wanted to find someone to put him up a small house. Grandfather Lindsay said that he would do it and there and then took the contract. Pat next inquired if there were any lawyers in the vicinity who could fix up his papers so he could file his claim and Grandfather said that he would attend to that matter also. When the business was all fixed up, Pat stepped back and raising his hat said, "I take my hat off to yer anor, for in dade ye are a man of the most general functions I ever saw."

And he was, for he followed at different times in life the calling of blacksmith, carpenter, farmer, lawyer and public official and rendered very good service at each. His accomplishments, in this respect, stood him in good stead and made him a good citizen in the communities where he lived; for he was a pioneer both in Illinois and Kansas and in new counties a division of labor does not generally obtain to any great extent.

Andrew L. Lindsay was born in Pennsylvania 16 April 1815. His father was John Lindsay. His paternal grandfather came from Scotland in an early day (having to leave his native country on account of the religious troubles of the time) and settled in Pennsylvania. Andrew Lindsay was reared in the place of his birth and received very ordinary advantages in the matter of education but having a vigorous mind and considerable strength of purpose, he overcame much of his early disadvantages by private study and came in time to be a fairly good scholar though never a student in the strict sense of the word. His reading was more or less desultory and being of a restless disposition, he never achieved the solid results which he might have if with the normal endowments he possessed he had chosen some particular calling and followed it assiduously from youth on through manhood. He left Pennsylvania when a young man and went to Illinois, locating in Sangamon County. There after following his trades for awhile, he took up the practice of law and was a member of the Sangamon County Bar at the time Lincoln practiced before it. He knew Lincoln well and met him as opposing counsel when Lincoln like himself was but an ordinary county court lawyer.

Grandfather Lindsay married in Sangamon County, Illinois 22 September 1842. Charlotte a daughter of Lewis Kimes and Sarah (Short) Kimes, his wife being a native of East Tennessee (Knoxville). Whence her parents moved to Illinois when she was small. She was reared in Illinois.

In 1869 Grandfather Lindsay moved with his family to Kansas and settled on the head waters of Chatopa Creek in what is now Chatopa township, Wilson County, taking a claim there at that time. He followed his trade as a carpenter in that vicinity for a number of years and also did blacksmithing. He helped to build the first house in Altoona and assisted in building many of the first houses in Thayer and Chanute. He filled some local offices such as Justice of the Peace, Judge of Election, and so on, and in other ways assisted in organizing and giving direction to the political and industrial energies of the community where he lived. He died 10 December 1887. He was for many years before his death a zealous Mason and a member of the Christian Church.

The sons and daughter born to Grandfather and Grandmother Lindsay are Andrew L., William E., Amanda, Elizabeth (wife of Thomas Gaugham), Franklin Pierce, George Morris, Corilla (my mother, wife of Henry Joseph Hampson), Isaac Crawford, and Robert Lee.

Notes for HENRY JOSEPH HAMPSON:

Henry Joseph Hampson appears to have migrated to South-Eastern Kansas, USA, sometime before 1879. Henry followed the trade of his two brothers and worked as a coal miner near Glasgow. South-Eastern Kansas had coal mines so it appears that Henry also worked as a miner there. The family later moved to Carbon County, Utah, where some members, including Henry were coal miners.

The 1910 Federal Census shows Henry, his wife Annie, and children Doris and Julia, living in Castle Gate, a small coal mining town in Carbon County, Utah. Henry's occupation is "miner."

"Hi Cousins [an e-mail from John Bouscher],

"I just got off the phone with my mother [Beverly McGowan] and wanted to get this information out before I forget. She was explaining to me that, as a young girl, she over heard her mother (Ila Hampson Marshall) talking to others about her father Henry Joseph Hampson. The story goes he lied about his age by about 5 years because his mother got pregnant sometime after her husband (Henry Hampson) was killed in a coal mining accident [about November 1856]. This was done to protect his mother. My mother also said, as the story goes. The family was Protestant but was abandon[ed] by the church after the accident, but that the Catholic church stepped in and helped them out so they joined the Catholic church. Hope this sheds some light on things and helps in the research."

[Note Henry's "present birthdate" is December 7, 1857. His real father, if the above is true, is not known.
